

THE HERALD'S South Manitou correspondent writes:—Schooner Barbarian, cleared for Chicago June 24th with a load of gravel, 430 yards, from South Manitou. First load of the season.—Crops looking pretty good, although they suffered considerably for want of rain. Pastures are looking fresh and green and cattle and horses begin to shine.—August Beck is building a large barn, and R. Kitchen is putting an addition on his house, so that guests can be accommodated, on the Manitous, as the cottage and hotel talk has staped altogether now.—This correspondent gives a quite full account of the first law suit, just completed, ever tried in Manitou county, but our space will not allow of its publication.

Grand Traverse Herald

July 2, 1885

The Herald's South Manitou correspondent writes: Schooner Barbarian, cleared for Chicago June 24th with a load of gravel, 430 yards, from South Manitou. First load of the season. – Crops looking pretty good, although they suffer considerably for want of rain. Pastures are looking fresh and green and cattle and horses begin to shine. – August Beck is building a large barn, and R. Kitchen is putting an addition on his house, so that guests can be accommodated, on the Manitous, as the cottage and hotel talk has stopped altogether now. – This correspondent gives a quite full account of the first law suit, just completed, ever tried in Manitou county, but our space will not allow of its publication.

(transcript)